Who we are. Beyond Borders.

Digital sessions, networking forums and tailored events for leaders in music

Bringing people together, shaping communities, exploring collective expression, and forming meaningful partnerships through masterclasses, networking forums and tailored sessions.

Internationally-renowned conductor and educator Rebecca Miller has curated a series of digital sessions focused around conducting, leadership, and community. Through a series of specialised sessions and tailored events, the aim is to creatively utilise Covid-induced isolation to unite conductors, orchestral musicians, educators and leaders in the music industry from across the globe.

Our purpose.

To bring people together in this new world we now find ourselves in, to share ideas for the future, and to champion music's innate value within our everyday lives.

We intend to enact these aims through our plan:

- To host a world-class masterclass series to unite conductors, orchestral musicians, educators and leaders in the music industry from across the globe;
- To produce packages of online and in-person supplementary resources and seminars for students, educators, and academic institutions;
- To produce tailored events for festivals, orchestras, and concert societies;
- And to provide tailor-made sessions on leadership, engagement and teamwork to support and reinvigorate you and colleagues in the workplace.

Our launch.

Landing 28 August 2020.

For our launch, we present to you a series of digital sessions and masterclasses - Making Waves - for anyone interested in the art of conducting, both on and off the platform.

Our sessions are all open and relevant to a general audience - with seminars, discussion platforms, networking forums and a conducting masterclass for young or emerging conductors, all to take place between Friday, 2 October 2020 to Sunday, 4 October 2020.

Making waves.

Our launch with a digital series for one and all.
2 - 4 October 2020.

Quick overview

- The series will be hosted by our Founder and acclaimed conductor, Rebecca Miller, through a collection of interactive discussions, online seminars, networking opportunities with industry experts and virtual masterclasses.
- This will be a three-day digital session series for one and all, with a special opportunity for emerging or early-career conductors to receive a masterclass, taking place between Friday, 2 October to Sunday, 4 October 2020.
- This digital session series will be hosted on our dedicated website at beyondborders.org.uk.
- There will be three streams of participants for this series: The Full Package, The Full Package PLUS, and The Open Package. More details can be found on our website.
- We encourage any interested individual to sign-up onto either The Full Package or The Open Package, even if you do not consider yourself to be a conductor. These sessions are for one and all.
- These are your sessions. Therefore we will be catering our schedule timings around where you are joining us from around the world, dependent on participant uptake
- Full details of the schedule and application process can be found on our website at beyondborders.org.uk.
